2. Few OIA resources are expended directly and solely in support of SALT. Since most such resource expenditure occurs as a part of the basic analysis of Soviet strategic systems. However, we do provide periodic reports to the SALT Support Staff and other interested offices on the status of Soviet strategic weapons systems and programs. These reports provide intelligence on SSBN, missile, and missile support equipment production; overhaul and dismantlement of SSBNs; and the current status of ICBM and SLBM development and test programs. (TSR)

3. Attached are the results of three methods of resource costing. Attachment 1 provides only the costs of the analyst positions based on the appropriate year's personnel services budget. Attachment 2 presents analysts and prorated management and support personnel services cost. Attachment 3 presents management and support personnel costs and under "Other" all other ancillary support costs prorated by total Office budget. Attachment 4 provides the number of analyst positions and under "Other" the number of prorated management and support positions. (U)
